

January 12, 2010

Dear Fellow Professionals,

My attending “Stop the Leadership Insanity” was perfect timing to the end of a not so perfect decade. Attending this Leadership conference is exactly what everyone needs going forward to the next decade.

This professional training trio offers a one of a kind learning opportunity that I have never experienced at any seminar. The trainers complement rather than repeat information which made this day seminar even more valuable. Without a doubt, Ami, Lee Ann, and Yona know how to deliver their message on the importance of a winning environment and provide a “how to” plan for immediate implementation.

I think 2010 will present new challenges to organizations. New leadership skills will need sharpening to remain competitive when it comes to building great organizations. All levels will need to develop and depend on their emotional intelligence in order to stay in the game, and these professional trainers can keep you there.

Respectfully,

Beverly Malooley, Director
